Defense Continues In Ammons' Trial

Several witnesses were called by the defense in the trial of Dr. James Ray Ammons Wednesday to testify on the procedure employed in past years by physicians at the Houston-McDevitt Clinic who wished to obtain drugs for office use.

Also testifying Wednesday were witnesses who expressed opinions supporting Dr. Ammons' medical practice in the local community.

Early in the day Wednesday, two former staff nurses of Dr. Ammons testified that it was common practice for the Clinic Pharmacy to fill cocaine hydrochloride solution prescriptions for the doctor to use as a local anesthetic in office treatment.

In the afternoon, the defense called Dr. Hal Houston, a local surgeon, to the stand. Under questioning from defense attorney Richard Heideman, Houston testified that it was normal practice for himself and the other doctors in the clinic to obtain drugs for office use by writing prescriptions for the medications.

Dr. Houston testified that that procedure had been followed, at least for the ten years he had been in practice, until last fall, after a fire at the clinic.

Dr. Houston said that at that time the physicians and pharmacists were advised that the proper procedure for doctors to obtain drugs for office use was to file a Drug Enforcement Administration form with that agency, rather than through the prescription method.

He testified that since that time, that has been the practice in his office and, to his knowledge, other local physicians were also using the method to obtain the office use drugs.

Dr. William Jennings, a neurologist who has recently moved his practice from Memphis to Paducah, testified that he and Dr. Ammons have consulted on several patients over the past few years both while he was in Memphis and since he had moved to Paducah.

Dr. Jennings said that Dr. Ammons had referred several patients to him for "further diagnosis and treatment" and that Dr. Ammons' diagnosis of those patients had been "generally good."

When asked about the use of cocaine hydrochloride solution among physicians he associated with, Jennings said that "some physicians use it for analgesic purposes."

"Several physicians use it almost exclusively, in their office for headaches," Dr. Jennings added.

Dr. Jennings testified that he had

John Brinkley Elected Governor Of Boys' State

John Walter Brinkley, III, who will be a senior at Calloway County High School this fall, was elected as governor of Boys State, a mythical 51st state which is sponsored by the Kentucky Department of the American Legion at Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond.

Brinkley was running on the Federalist Party ticket, and his running mate for Lieutenant governor was Boyce Lee Ross of Reidland High School. Brinkley defeated Teofilo Rebagay of Lexington Lafayette High School for governor and Jody Ray White of Jeffersontown High School as lieutenant governor, running on the Nationalist Party ticket.

Candidates were nominated in primary elections held Tuesday morning by the approximately 350 young men attending the 38th session. The general election was held Wednesday morning.

Also attending from Calloway County is Craig Redden who will also be a senior at Calloway High this fall. Murray High School is represented by Bruce Horning and David Sears, 1977-78 seniors. The men are sponsored by the Murray American Legion Post.

Today the elected officials were taken to Frankfort to visit with their real-life counterparts at the state capitol. Gov. Julian Carroll, who served as the first governor of Boys State in 1948, will deliver an address to the Boys State General Assembly Friday afternoon.

The week-long session will conclude Friday night with graduation ceremonies, and the election of two delegates to attend Boys Nation in Washington.

1977 MISS KENTUCKY PAGEANT—Karen Gordon, a speech and law major at Murray State University, will participate in the Miss Kentucky Pageant as "Miss Murray State University." The event is to take place June 23-25 at the Macauley Theatre in Louisville. Gordon, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Wendell Gordon of Benton, is an artist who specializes in sketching well-known personalities while narrating.

Citizens Want 15th Street To Be Reopened

"Keep 15th Street open" was the main theme of a discussion last night at a meeting attended by 40 local citizens to discuss the state Department of Transportation (DOT) traffic impact analysis of the Murray State University area.

The meeting was called by City Planner Steve Zea who told the group that the study was conducted after city officials had expressed some concern relative to changes in the transportation network in and around Murray State University.

The reasons for the study given in the DOT report said "This concern centered around the soon to be constructed Chestnut Street pedestrian overpass and the probable closing of 15th Street in the university area."

A show of hands among those present revealed that the overwhelming majority were not in favor of closing 15th Street through the university campus. The vote showed that 27 persons opposed that proposal and none raised their hands in support of closing 15th Street.

A major concern expressed was that if 15th Street were closed, Olive Blvd. would become the main entry point to the MSU campus.

H.M. Perry, a resident of 1302 Olive Blvd., talked at length about the options suggested by the DOT survey.

He said that one option listed to create accessibility between Main and Chestnut Streets if 15th Street is closed would be to open up either 13th or 14th Street through to Chestnut.

"To eliminate 15th would be costly, in itself," Perry said, "to reconstruct it into a mall would be more costly...and to provide emergency vehicle access into the university campus would be costly again. Then to make increased accessibility via 13th or 14th street would be an additional cost."

Perry said that he felt the state should save the cost of tearing up 15th Street and relocating the traffic to another area.

Instead of making Olive Blvd. the main point of entry (for the MSU campus) as recommended by DOT and MSU," Perry said, "let's make the main point of entry Chestnut at 15th and Main at 15th."

"Instead of forcing all the traffic down Olive, let's share it," Perry added.

Among the options suggested by the study were increased parking fees for on-campus vehicles to support additional patrolling for ticketing and towing away of vehicles parked in violation.

Zea explained to the group that DOT wants the citizens to express their opinions on the options so that the proposal can be re-drafted, incorporating some of those ideas into the final proposal.

Zea is expected to make a report on last night's meeting to the Murray Common Council at its regular meeting tonight.

Ed Council Okays KSU Stadium, Mission Statements

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Construction of a $1.6 million football stadium at Kentucky State University has been given belated approval by the council on higher education. Work on the project is nearly one-third complete.

However, the council warned Wednesday that in the future it will not act on any college or university building project unless it has been submitted in compliance with council policies.

Meanwhile, mission statements for five of Kentucky's state-supported colleges and universities were given final approval Wednesday by the council with no substantial changes in earlier drafts.

On April 20, the council approved statements of role and purpose for the University of Louisville and University of Kentucky.

A few editorial changes were made in the mission statements for Morehead State, Western, Murray, Northern, Eastern and Kentucky State University before the council approved them.

The council held a heated discussion over whether the executive committee has too much power and is usurping the council's responsibility.

The discussion grew out of an action taken by the executive committee regarding a tuition break for out of state students at Murray State. The executive committee reversed the council's position on the matter, but later reversed itself.

Council member Joy Boone questioned the committee's authority to change a council position.

"The awesome power of the council is better shared by the many than the few," she said. She also charged that issues often seem settled by the time they reach the council. "It comes to us too smooth," she said.

Jackson White, a member of the executive committee, said the panel had no intention of usurping the council's authority.

The council took no action after Snyder read the committee's duties. He said the committee has the authority to recommend, but that only the council may take formal action on a recommendation.

Settle Named To MSU Board

Governor Julian Carroll has appointed Dr. Ed Settle, a Princeton physician, to the Murray State University Board of Regents.

Dr. Settle will replace James Davis of Owensboro, whose term has expired and serve until March 31, 1981.

Other board members include Dr. Charles Howard, board chairman, of Mayfield, O. B. Springer, Henderson,

A. B. Mitchell, Smith's Grove, and Bob Long, Benton, whose terms expire in 1980; William Corneal, Owensboro, and Jere McCuston, whose terms expire in 1978; Frank Albert Stubblefield, Murray, whose term expires in 1979; Dr. Sal Matarazzo, faculty representative; and Tim Langford, who is serving as student representative until the new student government president is sworn in.

The Case For Legal Abortion

By ADAM LANNING
MSU Sociology Dept.

There are several lines of argument which, when taken together, make a compelling case for legal abortion. Let me elaborate:

Overpopulation. One of the least understood yet one of the most important problems facing American society is overpopulation and its consequences: air and water pollution; inflation; overcrowding; urbanization of the world; destruction of non-renewable resources; and so on. These consequences — all involving a lowering of the quality of life — are directly related to too many people.

But there is an answer. As a number of studies indicate, legal abortion controls population growth. For example, the birth rates of both Japan and Hungary declined rapidly after the legalization of abortion. If we want to check population growth, we must act now.

It is clear to all that someday population growth will have to come to a halt. Unless some control is placed on population growth the question before us will not be if the decision will be made, but will it be made in time? More than ten years ago President Johnson said that "Next to the pursuit of peace, the really greatest challenge to the human family is the race between food supply and population increase. That race tonight is being lost." And it is still being lost.

An alternative, of course, is for government to step in and tell us if, when, and how many children we might have. A far more humane and more preferable state of affairs is voluntary, legal abortion, unconditionally accessible to all.

The response to the question of abortion was noted in the 1973 decision of the Supreme Court which gave a woman and her physician the right to decide to terminate her pregnancy in its first trimester. This would be before viability of the fetus is attained. In effect, this ruling also declared invalid the right-to-life thesis that a fetus is a human being with legal rights. I concur with this position.

In reversing our position on this it seems to me we are doing great violence to a woman who strongly feels the necessity of preventing the birth of an unwanted child. Anyone close to someone who had an illegal abortion knows what she thinks no one else has the right to decide what she may do with her body. Any thought to the contrary is automatically considered barbaric, if not insane, from her personal perspective.

It seems to me that the question is not whether or not we shall have abortions but whether or not the abortion will be legal. The fact is that before 1973 an estimated one million American women obtained abortions each year. Only one per cent of these were legal. All of the rest were obtained illicitly.

The simple fact is that nothing we say or do will measurably affect the outcome. None of these arguments, pro or con, will change a thing. The woman who unhappily finds herself pregnant will either bring an unwanted child into the world or will find some means of aborting it. One study showed that, when confronted with the options of marrying the father, having an abortion, or having the baby, four out of five college girls choose abortion. More likely, in fact, is that the largest group of women seeking abortions are not single women, or black, but are married, white middleclass women who perceive the addition of a child to the household to constitute an unsupportable burden.

There are many latent consequences of illegal abortions. For instance, it means that more people will resort to quacks, because they are cheaper than the few qualified physicians who are

What's Wrong With Legalized Abortions

By FRED C. MORTON
United Campus Ministry

Abortion is now an option which is legally available to every woman. In 1973 the Supreme Court (Roe v. Wade) ruled that a woman's right to privacy extends to the decision to terminate an unwanted pregnancy within the first twelve weeks after conception. This change in the law has apparently led to an increase in the abortion rate in the United States. Most women electing abortion to terminate an unwanted pregnancy are unmarried and under 30 years of age. My concern is for those persons who face such an agonizing decision and how they can make a decision without regret, not only for the immediate present, but for years to come. In short, how can a woman or a couple make a responsible moral decision about an unwanted pregnancy?

EDITOR'S NOTE: The purpose of the Local Issues Forum series is to stimulate public interest in major issues at the local level. Reader responses to the thoughts presented in the two articles presented here today are encouraged.

Letters should be addressed to Local Issues Forum, The Murray Ledger & Times, P. O. Box 32, Murray, Ky. 42071. All letters received on today's subject will be printed on Thursday, June 16. The letters, which must bear the name and address of the writer, should be delivered to the newspaper office by noon Wednesday, June 15.

This series is partially funded by the Kentucky Humanities Council (KHC) and is jointly sponsored by this newspaper and the College of Humanistic Studies at Murray State University. The opinions expressed in the articles are those of the writers and do not necessarily reflect the views of the KHC, MSU or this newspaper.

There are several matters that should be clarified to avoid confusion. A word of caution should be uttered against oversimplifying what is a profoundly complex matter. Cliche slogans and sandlot rules will not lead to sound decisions. Also we should take counsel that abortion is abortion: it is not murder. Abortion is the interruption of nascent or fetal life within the mother.

Although there is conflicting opinion among legal, medical, and religious authorities as to when nascent life becomes actual human life, the basic moral distinction between abortion and homicide has been rather generally accepted. It severs neither man, God, law, nor science to confuse the two and condemn abortion as cruel murder. This is not to say that there is no such thing as cruel abortion!

Every decision relative to abortion reflects basic human values or principles, and these have a profound effect on the ethical and spiritual quality of our life. Decisions and actions that uphold or affirm basic human values and principles enhance the quality and meaning of life. Decisions and actions that contradict those values or principles demean life.

In the balance of this article, I wish to examine the values implied in a decision to abort or terminate a pregnancy. My position is that the values which have prevailed in our Judeo-Christian culture generally dispose us to regard abortion as an inappropriate means of birth control; and when it is chosen, abortion should only be regarded as a lesser of evils.

The four values or principles which I feel to be central to this matter are: 1. the value of human life, 2. individual responsibility, 3. persons in relationship, and 4. sexual responsibility.

The value of human life is paramount if not absolute in Western Civilization. No human life — be it aged, infirm, infant, exceptional, criminal, or whatever — can be dealt with or terminated capriciously or arbitrarily. While the unborn child or fetus does not enjoy these rights to the same degree, healthy respect if not reverence for the unborn's life is in order. The value of all human life and the rights of each individual life compel us to give serious regard for the process and genuine mystery by which life begins.

The second principle is that of the responsibility of each individual for his own behavior. The very quality of life in our society assumes that each person will exercise his freedom and take responsibility for the direction of his own affairs. The advances of modern medicine have accelerated our freedom by giving us new knowledge and new choices. We are in a real sense freer today, but we must also be more responsible.

The third principle is that of the person in relationship. No individual exists unto himself alone. One's actions

June Bride-elect Honored At Tea At Community Room

Another delightful courtesy extended to Miss Gail Outland, June 11th bride-elect of Robert Blalock, was the tea shower held on Saturday, May 21, at the Community Room of the North Branch of the Peoples Bank.

Greeting the guests in the receiving line were the honoree, wearing a floor length dress of yellow with matching corsage; her mother, Mrs. Charles Outland, wearing a floor length dress of light pink with a pink and white corsage; her mother-in-law to be, Mrs. Nelson Blalock, wearing a floor length dress of pink with pink and white corsage; Mrs. Festus Futrell, grandmother of the honoree, wearing a floor length dress of light purple with matching corsage.

Also in the receiving line was Mrs. Charles Henry, wearing a green floor length dress with matching corsage, one of the hostesses. Mrs. James Chaney, Mrs. Rudolph Howard, Mrs. James Outland, Mrs. Fred McKinney, and Mrs. Billy Outland were also hostesses for the lovely bridal occasion.

The gifts were displayed on a table covered with a white cloth with a Maypole centerpiece of rainbow colored ribbons with ivy and palm leaves at the base. Small tables were arranged with rainbow colored cloths with centerpieces of candles with ivy and palm leaves arranged at the base. Refreshments of pink punch, cakes, sandwiches, nuts, and mints were served at the beautifully appointed tea table overlaid with a pink cloth with a net overlay designed with bells and ribbon and centered with a large arrangement of fresh flowers of rainbow colors.

One hundred and fifteen persons were present or sent gifts.

Down Concord Way----

Election, Graduation Discussed By Writer

By Estelle Spiceland
May 31, 1977

Election day at Floy McClure's garage in New Concord was very quiet and systematic, resulting as all elections, in victory for some, and disappointments for others.

Another graduation season, too, has passed for many students. Congratulations and best wishes for a successful climb up the ladder of life.

"But you must have hope, and you must have faith, you must work, and be strong and so, if you work, if you wait, you will find the place where the four leaf clovers grow."

But don't waste your time on chain letters. I never read them — just toss them in the waste basket.

Congratulations to young Trevor Coleman on the arrival of a baby sister at the Mack Coleman's.

Mrs. Lorene Smith underwent surgery at the Murray-Calloway Hospital and stayed there until her house was ready with new aluminum siding. We wish for her a speedy recovery.

The Lloyd Spicelands after a month in Kentucky winterizing and renovating her old Harris homeplace, helping his widowed sister, Mrs. Christine Dawson, and offering assistance where needed, returned to their home in Dearborn, Mich., and daughter's family.

Denny Clark of Concord Corner is employed by the Belsons of Concord Grocery and Paris Landing Boat Dock.

When recently a thunderstorm caused a black out in the Concord community, and old kerosene lamps, and even candles, had to be used, we appreciated the quick service of electricians. Hats off to such servicemen.

The "green green grass of home" still calls as new owners of the former Sigmon home near Concord proves. Tanny Cook's widow and son, Frank, live there Mrs. Cook's daughter, Barbara, and husband of Michigan bought it.

Dickie Champion of Michigan, a former student of old Woodlawn School, stopped to see us while visiting hills of home.

Otis Lovins' daughter's family, the Gannons of Colorado Springs, expect to spend June in Calloway and in New Jersey visiting his people.

Mt. Carmel Baptist Church will welcome in July a new pastor, the Rev. George White, cousin to the Rev. Jerrell White of Memorial Baptist.

Since starting this letter an ambulance has passed to take Maud Nance to the hospital. She suffered a massive heart attack just after her taped Memorial address came over the radio.

We do hope Maud recovers to enjoy many more years in her lovely white brick home in Concord where she has enjoyed entertaining UDC and DAR members and many others since she and her sister, Mrs. John Livesay and husband built beautiful homes here for their retirement years.

The green green grass of home called the Nance family back after years in Paducah and Chicago, and their antiques have brought people to Concord from far and near. Now after five years of New Concord cemetery responsibilities passed from Howard Kline, I am resigning duties to Frank McCuiston since a permanent fund will now pay for future mowing.

Bride-Elect, Miss Reagan,

Honored; Vows Are Planned

A coffee honoring Miss Lynn Reagan, who is to be married Saturday afternoon, June 11, in the First Christian Church to Michael Ryan, was given Saturday, June 4, from ten a.m. to noon in the social room of the North Branch of the Bank of Murray.

Miss Reagan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Reagan, Mr. and Mrs. William Ryan are the parents of the groom-elect.

The spacious room which is decorated in soft tones of brown carpeting and harmonizing tile, papered with embossed covering with glistening chandeliers was the setting. Round tables were covered with floor-length cloths and overlaid with beige smaller cloths. A gold platform held a miniature bride and groom with two candelabra containing five white burning chandeliers, graced the tables.

Other decorations included holders filled with dried colorful flowers and pleasant feathers. Music was furnished by a stereo.

The tea table was centered with a silver wine cooler filled with daisies, yellow lilies and white baby mums. The refreshments of coffee, Cokes and miniature sandwiches and cookies were served from silver appointments, and prepared by Mrs. Gordon Moody.

Miss Reagan wore a street length dress of silk taupe. Standing in the receiving line with her were her mother; Mrs. Ryan, mother of the groom-elect; Mrs. Jeff Chase, Lynn's sister and Elizabeth Crossland, a great aunt. The bride-elect's grandmothers, Mrs. Ruth Reagan and Mrs. W. Z. Carter, entertained by showing the great grand baby, Amy Chase, just two months old.

Hostesses included Madge Diuguid, Delma Trotter, Inus Orr, Opal Fulton, Gladys Hale, Rosemary Thurman, Nani Hewett, Betty Scott, Mary Belle Overby, Bobs Hopper, Dorothy Nanney, Martha Guier, Audrey Scott, Wanda Dick, Lochie Hart, Margie Shown, Norma Frank, and Evelyn Wilson.

All friends are invited to the wedding at two p.m. the reception which is to be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reagan, 111 Fairlane Drive, Murray.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

Sex Meant for Mature Partners

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 17-year-old girl who many times has felt like going further than I should with a boy I really like. Abby, I'm going to ask you a question I wish I could ask my mother but can't because all I would get is a lecture.

Why should a girl be expected to wait until she's married to have sex? We all have normal passions that get stronger with adolescence. Married people have an outlet for their sex, but what about unmarried people?

Other countries like Samoa permit premarital sex. Why can't we? I can see logical reasons for not being promiscuous, such as danger of venereal disease and unwanted pregnancy, but when two people want sex and know how to prevent disease and pregnancy, why the big "No No"?

Our society is so advanced in other ways, but it insists that unmarried people either suppress their normal sex urges or pretend they don't exist.

If there is any good reason why kids who are in love should refrain from premarital sex, I'd like to know what it is.

SPEAKING FOR TEENS

DEAR SPEAKING: The big "No No" is not the relationship between two normal, healthy, MATURE, responsible people "in love"; it's the use of sex by the immature, irresponsible, confused adolescent who mistakes his first sexual stirrings for "love."

"Knowing" how to prevent unwanted pregnancies and venereal disease is not enough to prevent them; witness NO decline in illegitimacy even with the Pill. And in spite of all the education concerning venereal disease, it's still a major public health problem.

When you are ready to accept all the responsibilities and commitments of "love" and a family, you will not ask me what is wrong with premarital sex.

DEAR ABBY: I have worked at a service station for the last seven months, and I never realized how rude and thoughtless people can be.

I hope you can find it in your heart to print these suggestions for your readers to consider:

1. Please take a few seconds and roll down your window and tell us what you want. We don't have bionic ears and we can't read lips. If you hold up five fingers, that could mean five gallons of gas OR $5 worth.

2. Don't ask us to check your oil when you plan to go right home and put a quart in. We don't need the experience. If you can put oil in at home, you can check it at home.

3. Please don't sit there with your door open while the attendant is trying to wash your windows.

4. When you finish using the air hose, please roll it back up and replace it on the hanger.

5. If all you have is a $100 bill, please ask the attendant if he is able to change it before he puts gas in your car. We keep our cash thinned down, and it's very irritating when someone gets a dollar's worth of gas and hands you a $100 bill.

6. If you want premium gas, please pull up to that pump. We can't get premium gas out of a regular pump.

7. PLEASE don't complain to us about the price of gas. We have nothing to do with the price. We just pump it.

Thanks, Abby. Even if you don't print this, it sure felt good to get this off my chest.

EDITORIAL

We Don't Agree With All We Print

The Murray Ledger & Times does not necessarily agree with all the opinions we print. We would not be much of a newspaper if we refused to print anything with which we disagree.

On this page, which we call the "Opinion Page," many different viewpoints come from three different sources: from us (the newspaper), from you (the reader) and from them (syndicated and special columnists not on the regular newspaper staff).

While we print many different views, only those pieces which are headed "editorial" are the opinions of the editorial staff of The Murray Ledger & Times.

Even if we disagree, we print letters and "Open Forum" articles. We ask only that the letters be in good taste, of reasonable length and free of slander.

The letters must be signed and carry the address of the writer. Phone numbers must be included so that the newspaper can verify the letters prior to publication.

The newspaper reserves the right to reject letters which do not meet the above standards.

We do not always agree with our syndicated and local columnists. Again, we print their opinions to provide a forum for a wide-ranging expression of thought.

Included in today's edition is the final installment of a five-part series entitled "Local Issues Forum" in which various writers have argued different sides of the same question. Topics included in the series, which is partially funded by the Kentucky Humanities Council and jointly sponsored by this newspaper and the College of Humanistic Studies at Murray State University, have ranged from the legalization of alcohol sales locally to today's topic, abortion.

Response to the series from readers has been encouraging. We have been approached many times since the first pro-con series appeared and asked "What's your topic going to be this week?"

We feel that this series has been informative and helpful to our readers and, if you agree, we urge you to let us know.

The series has been a pilot project of the KHC, MSU and this newspaper. We hope to reinstitute the series next fall for a full year.

This series, as well as other opinionated items that regularly appear on this page, are presented for the benefit of you, the reader.

If you differ with an editorial, letter or a columnist and wish to express another viewpoint, we encourage you to do so in writing.

Just address your letter to: Editor, The Murray Ledger & Times, P. O. Box 32, Murray, Ky., 42071.

It's your opinion we value the most!

ABORTION

willing to risk their reputation and career by performing illegal abortions. It means that, once again, the affluent members of society will have the advantage. They will have no difficulty in taking care of the needs of their children (i.e. getting a qualified M. D. to perform an abortion). They never have.

Lower income groups will have to take their chances with quacks or other less-skilled medical aides, and often in unsanitary operating situations. At worst, of course, are the tragic and often fatal attempts of self-induced abortive techniques.

It is reported that before the 1973 law an estimated 3000 women died each year in abortion attempts. This was from a total of an estimated one million women who underwent illegal abortions each year. And not all those who wished to have abortions got them. Bumpus and Westoff, of the Princeton Population Council, concluded that, in the 1960s, one-fifth of all births were unwanted. This amounted to 700,000 annually.

Critics of abortion generally see it as an exclusively negative happening — a means of non-fulfillment only. While the facts may be that abortion, like any other means of birth control, can lead to fulfillment in the life of a woman. In the words of Garrett Hardin, a professor of biology at Berkeley, "... a woman who aborts this year because she is in poor health, neurotic, economically harassed, unmarried, on the verge of divorce, or immature may well decide to have some other child five years from now — a wanted child. If her need for abortion is frustrated, she may never know the joy of a wanted child."

I can do no less than to heartily endorse this position. It is a truly humane perspective.

Con. . .

have consequences for others. The exercise of individual freedom must take into account the effects of one's decisions and actions upon others in close relationship as well as those even farther removed or society as a whole.

The fourth is the value or principle of sexual responsibility. Despite remarkable advances in birth control techniques, persons who are sexually intimate must still reckon with the possibility of pregnancy. Sexual responsibility entails a mutual trust and concern. The test of that trust and the integrity of that relationship may well express itself in terms of the couple's ability to agree upon how they might deal with an unwanted pregnancy.

Persons facing the possibility of an unwanted pregnancy who take seriously these four principles will be more responsible, will make better decisions, and feel better about themselves. In contrast to the law which concerns private rights, I am talking about a moral decision and an eventuality that must of necessity involve at least two persons (the mother and the father). This four-fold approach will, I believe, help a woman or a couple meet the risk and the dilemma with more openness and freedom and less capriciousness and less likelihood or moral regret than may otherwise be the case.

Couples who exercise sexual responsibility will be more cautious and less likely to encounter an unwanted pregnancy. If they should, hopefully they will be sensitive to the basic value of human life, but also aware of the impact of that pregnancy upon the quality of their life and relationships. Psychological factors, financial considerations, and population pressures cannot be ruled out as legitimate reasons for an abortion. These four principles do, however, guard against rash or precipitous decisions to terminate life for matters of convenience or social embarrassment — i. e. as masks for irresponsible sexuality.

They also provide a way of dealing with extreme and unusual cases, as for example that of a severely deformed unborn, that of pregnancy as a result of rape or incest, or that of cases where pregnancy threatens the life or health of the mother.

The main focus of my position has been on persons' responsibility before the pregnancy occurs. I believe that abortion is — though the surest — an exceedingly poor and inappropriate means of birth control. And it does not get at the basic issues of individual responsibility and mature sexual responsibility.

Garrott's Galley We Can't Say Our Governor Wastes Time Playing Golf

By M. C. Garrott

There are a lot of things Kentucky Gov. Julian Carroll does better than play golf. His critics certainly could never accuse him of spending too much time on a course.

Not long ago, he was playing on the course at Kentucky Dam Village State Park. As has been the practice of late, several security men were accompanying him.

Paducah Sun-Democrat reporter Bill Bartleman was at the course to talk with the governor about some particular story he was working on. Bill was sitting under a tree waiting for the governor's foursome to come in on the long, uphill, dogleg 18th hole.

As the governor hacked his way toward the hole, the security men noticed someone sitting beneath a tree near the green and rushed ahead to investigate. They quickly recognized Bill, who has become a familiar figure in Frankfort.

"I'll bet you didn't know who I was," Bill called out as the two men drove up in a golf cart.

"Oh, we recognize you all right," one of them said. "We were just coming to warn you that the governor is getting ready to hit again."

If I had an Honest Abe of the Week Award to present, I would give it this week to Charles Fleck, 400 South 16th Street.

On Memorial Day, Charles accidentally backed into our No. 1 car while it was parked at Owens Market and badly damaged the right rear fender panel. Cathryn didn't even know it until she walked around it after driving into the garage at home.

Heart-sick for a moment at the thought of a big repair bill for something she didn't even know had occurred, she looked to see if someone had done it had left a note and found one from Charles with his name, address and telephone number. It had been tucked under the windshield wiper.

It turned out that both Charles and I are insured with the same company. The car is being repaired. We have no problems.

So many times, people bang into other people's cars in parking lots and drive away without leaving a note, card or anything, leaving the unlucky owner of the unoccupied car to bear the expense of repairing his car. This is a punishable crime, too, leaving the scene of an accident no matter how minor it is.

So, we commend and thank Charles for his thoughtfulness. He deserves the Honest Abe Award.

All of which reminds me of the story which appeared in the press some time back about a similar incident. A man had backed into a parked car, and the accident had been witnessed by a number of people, several of whom walked over to inspect the damage with him.

After looking at the crumpled fender or smashed headlight, whatever it was, the man who had caused the damage pulled a notebook from his pocket and began to write as the others drifted away. Later, the owner of the damaged car returned to find this note on his windshield:

"I am sorry I backed into your car and damaged it. A number of people saw me do it and are watching now as I write this note. They think I am giving you my name, address and insurance company, but I'm not about to do that. I am sorry I hit your car and I promise to be more careful next time." There was no signature, address or telephone number.

Editorials and opinionated articles on this page are presented for the purpose of providing a forum for the free exchange of differing opinions. Letters to the editor in response to editorials and opinionated articles are encouraged.

The editors of this newspaper strongly believe that to limit opinionated articles to only those which parallel the editorial philosophy of this newspaper would be a disservice to our readers. Therefore we urge readers who do not agree with an editorial stand or the stand presented by an individual writer in a column, to respond with their feelings on the particular issue being discussed.

Luckily, one of the witnesses did remember his license number and the culprit was later arrested and charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

You can't say you've lost something you never had in the first place. At least, that's Mabel Rogers' philosophy.

Last Friday, Mabel had been playing her usual round of golf at the Oaks Country Club. The afternoon had been extremely hot, and as she headed for Cardinal Drive and home, the thought occurred to her that she needed to go by Southside IGA and pick up a loaf of a particular kind of bread that Hillard likes.

"I'll do that later," she decided and headed for the house and a refreshing shower. The loaf of bread soon was forgotten. She never did go get it.

Late Saturday afternoon, her phone rang. It was the manager of Southside IGA. Had she had her card punched at the store that week, he asked. No, she hadn't. He was calling to tell her that her name had been drawn for the store's weekly cash award. It had reached $400.

"He had a consolation prize for me," she said, "but that turned out to be a pretty expensive loaf of bread. And come to think of it, I didn't even get that."

Later, the phone rang steadily as friends called to kid her about losing the $400, but kidding rolls off Mabel like water off a duck's back. She just laughs and says, "Well, I never had it, so I couldn't have lost it. If it had been in my purse and I had lost that, now that would have been a horse of another color. They probably would have had to bury me!"

Judge Archie Simonson of Madison, Wis., has brought down the wrath of the National Organization for Women and a lot of other people for his attitude toward a 15-year-old boy accused of rape, and he deserves it. To say that the boy was reacting normally to sexual stimulation is nonsense.

The judge is right about one thing, however. Society is indeed going through a period of sexual permissiveness. Youngsters are growing up today in an atmosphere of sexual freedom that is a far cry from what prevailed a generation ago.

Advocates of a more relaxed attitude toward sexual subjects insist that less prudery is healthy in the long run. For the sake of adolescents who are growing up today, we can only hope they're right. As for the violent crime of rape, a judge who would shift the blame to permissiveness in society is out of step with the morality of this and any other age.

Harm On The Ranch

By GEORGE W. HACKETT
Associated Press Writer

FT. KNOX, Ky. (AP) — Ray Harm is back in the saddle again, but ranching doesn't interfere with his work in the field of wildlife art.

"Nothing could ever keep me away from my brushes and canvas," Harm said. "They've given me the opportunity to express my emotions and feelings about nature and the things I love."

He paints about six hours a day and still has time to run a 150 acre dude ranch in the mountains near Tucson. There are 18 large rooms and a 3,200 foot landing strip for the use of guests and their private planes.

"It's our new home," said Harm, explaining that he and his wife Millie were forced to leave Bell County, Ky., last June after doctors decided she would have less trouble with asthma in a drier climate.

"Millie likes to fool around with gourmet food and I was a rodeo rider for a number of years, so we've got a pretty good operation going," Harm said.

After leaving his native West Virginia mountains at the age of 13 he drifted into the rodeo circuit, competing from Pendleton, Ore., to Madison Square Garden.

He never got beyond the sixth grade and admits that "not having a formal education has been a handicap for me. I wouldn't recommend dropping out the way I did."

Harm was a truck driver in Cleveland when his sketches caught the attention of Louisville auto dealer Wood Hannah. He commissioned Harm to do a series of paintings, then persuaded him to settle in Kentucky in 1962. They later formed a company to market prints, which have soared in value over the years.

A print of an eagle and osprey in flight, which sold originally for $75, now has an asking price of $3,000. There are only 500 in existence, although the company can run off a maximum 5,000 copies of a Harm sketch before destroying the plate.

"I'm probably the only wildlife artist in America who doesn't work from photographs," Harm said as he relaxed in the library at this Army post. He had come here to sign his latest print, a commemorative golden eagle, which was sold to help raise funds for the Patton Museum.

"I go about painting the hard way," he said. "I spend a lot of time in the field, observing birds and animals at their water holes and feeding places. Meantime, other wildlife artists, who rely on photos, are back in their studios brushing up on their style. They can turn out work faster than I can."

He has made a lot of money but Harm remains a modest man.

"In another 10 years, I will be painting as well as some of the other fellows. I'm speaking of the academic point of view. The scientific community never has found fault with my sketches."

Let's Stay Well

Immunizing Children

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

Q. Mrs. T.J. writes that she has been reading of the widespread neglect in the proper immunization of children against contagious diseases and finds it difficult to believe. She wants to know the recommended schedule by physicians for childhood immunizations.

A. A widespread apathy does exist among the public toward needed immunizations of children. This problem needs prompt attention.

It is estimated that about 20 million children (40 per cent of those under 15 years of age) are not fully protected against serious contagious diseases.

The dangers to our children are serious and real. Recently, two youngsters died of diphtheria in New York City. Two epidemics of measles occurred a few months ago in separate major cities. Measles often causes brain damage and may be related to the later development of multiple sclerosis.

This spring and summer polio may reappear. Prior to 1955, this dread disease crippled and killed thousands of children and some adults.

Whooping cough will occasionally prove fatal to children if protection is not increased.

German measles (rubella), if it occurs in early pregnancy, often results in serious birth defects, such as mental retardation, deafness, and blindness. Accidents will result in cases of tetanus or lockjaw (about 50 per cent fatal) if immunizations, which are highly effective, are not administered.

It has been estimated that worldwide, preventable infectious diseases kill about five million children and cripple millions of others, principally in developing nations.

The American Academy of Pediatrics recommends the following schedule of immunizations:

At 2 to 4 months of age: DPT (diphtheria, whooping cough, and tetanus or lockjaw) and polio, at 15 months, measles (rubella), German measles (rubella), and mumps, at 18 months and again at 6 years of age. DPT and polio, and finally at 14 to 16 years of age, polio and tetanus.

A vigorous, persistent public education program could be helpful.

Ethics Small Factor In Sports, Says Promoter

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent

What can be more insidious than man's ingratitude to man?

"It's a question I have to ask myself every day," says Bill Daniels, Denver communications pioneer who took a $4 million bath in a naive venture into big time professional sports—particularly basketball and boxing.

"I am not bitter, just disillusioned," added the energetic head of Daniels Properties, Inc., which has a network of cable television subscribers in 14 cities and five states. "I learned a lesson. I found that faith and trust are scarce commodities in today's inflated sports market."

"Most athletes are out for everything they can get. Few have a compunction about keeping their word. Contracts and understandings are just things made to wiggle out of."

"For me, it has been a shattering experience." The experience mainly encompassed the Utah Stars of the now defunct American Basketball Association and two ranking heavyweights, ex-convict Ron Lyle and the recently beaten "white hope," Duane Bobick.

Laker Booster Club Meeting To Be Friday

The Calloway County Athletic Booster Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Friday at North Calloway.

Officers for the club will be elected and installed at the meeting.

North Elementary is on 16th Street Extended and all interested persons are urged to attend the meeting.

"Lyle was like a brother to me," Daniels said. "I took an interest in him while he was still in prison. He had great potential as a fighter. I saw possibilities of rehabilitating him on the strength of his boxing ability."

"I used all the influence I had to get him pardoned by the governor of Colorado. I promised him a shot at the title. I fulfilled that promise. Ron had a lead on Muhammad Ali on every official card until he got careless in the 11th round and was knocked out."

"Then one day he came up to me and said he wanted out of our contract. It was like a

Russell Hitched

MERCER ISLAND, Wash. (AP) — Bill Russell, the former Seattle SuperSonics coach general manager, has married Didi Anstett, 29, a former Miss USA.

The ceremony was limited to family and close friends, including Russell's three children by a previous marriage, according to the bride's mother, Mrs. Duane Anstett. Ceremonies were held at Russell's Mercer Island home.

Russell, who left his job with the National Basketball Association club after the 1976-77 season, reportedly has known the former Miss Anstett for about seven years. She was Miss USA in 1968 and fourth in the Miss Universe competition that year.

It was her first marriage and his second.

son saying, "Well, dad, I don't like you any more. I am going away."

The experience with Bobick was every bit as disheartening, Daniels said.

"Before the 1972 Olympics, everybody was promising Duane a Cadillac and $200,000 bonus to sign after the Games," he related. "They were sure he would win and be a big pro drawing card. But he lost and, when he returned home, he found that all those fancy offers had disappeared. Nobody wanted to talk to him."

"That's when I signed him. I gave him good training and coaching, paying him $1,000 a month expenses. Then, after his 24th fight, he came to me and said he wanted to go to Joe Frazier."

"I figure I lost $70,000 on Bobick alone."

Ryan Goes 10 Innings, Fans 19 Men But Gets No Decision

By BARRY WILNER

AP Sports Writer

Nolan Ryan spent Wednesday night striking out 19 Toronto batters in 10 innings, but all he got to show for it was a no-decision.

"That's the best I have ever seen Nolan pitch," said California Manager Norm Sherry. "It was as easy as he's ever thrown. That's the way Sandy Koufax used to pitch, nice and easy."

Ryan, who tied a career high with the 19 strikeouts, was not around when Bobby Grich led off the 13th inning with a home run, giving California a 2-1 victory over the Blue Jays. The right-hander with the blazing fastball was relieved by Dave LaRoche in the 11th and left the park before the game ended.

Ryan struck out 18 in nine innings but was trailing 1-0 until Bobby Bonds' two-out single in the ninth tied the score. Both Ryan and Toronto starter Jesse Jefferson carried no-hitters into the sixth inning.

Twins 9, Royals 8, 10 Innings

Hise took over the major league runs batted in lead with 52 after collecting four RBI against the Royals. He hit a three-run homer in the first in addition to his decisive shot opening the 10th.

Hise's winning homer came after teammate Glenn Borgmann tied the score 8-8 with a two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth.

John Mayberry, hit two homers for the Royals, who fell seven games behind the first place Twins in the AL West.

Red Sox 14, Orioles 5

The Red Sox' 11-run second was their biggest inning of the year but not the biggest of the season at Fenway Park. Cleveland scored 13 runs in one inning in April.

The one home run of the game was hit by Butch Hobson, a three-run shot in the big second.

Rangers 6, White Sox 1

Blyleven broke a personal five-game losing streak in beating the White Sox.

Blyleven, 5-7, gave up a leadoff homer to Ralph Garr in the opening inning, then settled down to an eight-strikeout performance. Toby Harrah and Tom Grieve homered for the Rangers.

Yankees 9, Brewers 2

New York took over first place in the AL East by one game behind Mike Torrez' five-hitter. Torrez, 7-4, double in the seventh won the received home run support from Bucky Dent, who slammed two homers, giving him four in three games, Reggie Jackson, who also belted his fourth homer in three games, and Roy White.

Seattle 3, Tigers 2

Carlos Lopez' two-run homer in the eighth gave the Mariners their victory. Ruppert Jones also homered in support of Mike Kekich's strong four innings of relief pitching.

A's 3, Indians 2

Mike Jorgensen's two-run double in the seventh won the game for Oakland, which snapped Dennis Eckersley's three-game winning streak. Eckersley had allowed just one hit in his previous 23 innings of pitching.

Rasmussen Seven-Hits Padres, Cards Win 3-0

By PAUL LeBAR
AP Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis pitcher Eric Rasmussen believed he had firm control of his own destiny — except for a few sinking seconds.

Then, following a 50-minute rain delay in the seventh inning of a 3-0 Cardinals victory over the San Diego Padres, he was less than certain Wednesday night.

"Pete Falcone came out and said, 'Vern told me to tell you you're out of the game,'" said Rasmussen, who winced in recalling the bogus message from Manager Vern Rapp.

"I said, 'No way,'" added the tall right-hander. "Then I looked at him and knew he was putting me on. There was no way I was going to come out of that game."

Rasmussen, 4-7, subsequently capped a seven-hitter, breezing to the finish by working past two San Diego singles in the ninth.

And, while en route to his staff-high fourth complete game for St. Louis, he fanned two and walked none to improve his control mark to 1.9 walks per nine-inning game.

Did Rasmussen's shutout, the fourth of his three-season National League career and second of the year, represent his best major league effort?

"It was one of them," he responded. "I've got four shutouts, two against this club. The game last year, when I shut out Cincinnati for 10 innings, was probably my best. (Fred) Norman shut us out for 10 innings, then we beat (Rawly) Eastwick in the 11th by 1-0."

Rasmussen, relying chiefly on recently cultivated additional movement with his fast ball, permitted the Padres two hits in only the sixth and final innings and was helped by two Cards double plays.

His teammates, meanwhile, broke through against left-hander Randy Jones, 4-6, for a run in the second inning and combed San Diego's 1976 NL Cy Young Award winner for two more in the fourth.

Ken Reitz' double over the first base bag and line-hugging triple, which rolled into foul territory in right field, keyed the two rallies, with Keith Hernandez also chipping in a triple.

"They were both sinkers on the outside of the plate," said Reitz, a right-handed hitter. "I didn't hit them off the end of my bat, but I didn't get much wood on them either."

A frustrated Jones, who underwent arm surgery last winter, could grumble only "it stinks" when considering his ill luck but Padres Manager Al Dark was not similarly upset.

"They were funny-looking things," said Dark of Reitz' hits, "but I'm so thankful his (Jones') arm's all right. He has to strengthen it more. That's the main thing."

Expos Preventing Mets From Escaping Cellar, Cards Win

By BEN THOMAS
AP Sports Writer

The Montreal Expos, with Steve Rogers the National League's runaway strikeout leader, have a five-game victory streak, and are preventing the resurgent New York Mets from climbing out of the East Division basement and overtaking them.

The Mets have been the hottest team in the league the past nine days since Joe Torre became manager, winning seven and losing only two, but the Expos also have played well — with a 5-3 record for the same period.

While Cincinnati stopped the Mets 5-0 Wednesday night, Rogers' six-hitter gave the Expos a 6-0 triumph over the Atlanta Braves. It was the 27-year-old right-hander's eighth victory in 12 decisions.

The Expos, incidentally, have not lost since dropping three in a row to the Mets in Torre's managerial debut.

Reds 5, Mets 0
Jack Billingham's first shutout of the season, on an eight-hitter, and George Foster's three-run homer helped Cincinnati end the Mets' four-game winning streak. Billingham, who has not lost to the Mets since July 22, 1975, raised his career record against New York to 11-4.

Phillies 3, Astros 2
Jay Johnstone had not had a hit in 13 trips to the plate until the fifth inning of Wednesday night's game between Philadelphia and Houston. Then, with the Astros ahead 2-1, the Phillies' outfielder connected for his second homer of the year, driving in winning pitcher Steve Carlton, 8-3.

Giants 3, Pirates 2
With many of his relatives from New Brighton, Pa., a fourth.

Pittsburgh suburb, cheering him on, San Francisco rookie Jack Clark hit a solo homer and doubled home the winning run, giving San Francisco a sweep of its three-game series against the Pirates, losers in 12 of their last 18 games. His homer came in the second inning off Jim Rooker.

Cardinals 3, Padres 0
Ken Reitz drove in two runs with a double and a triple as St. Louis, behind Eric Rasmussen's six-hitter, stopped the Padres in a rain-plagued game, delayed at the start for 20 minutes and again for 20 minutes midway through the seventh inning.

Reitz doubled in the second inning and tripled in the fourth.

Expos' First Draft Selection Same As First Pick Last Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Give the Montreal Expos credit for this much — they know a good prospect when they see him.

The Expos liked Calvin Adams enough to make him the No. 1 over-all selection in baseball's amateur free agent draft last January and even though they were unable to sign the Central Arizona Junior College third baseman-outfielder, that didn't change their opinion of the young man's ability.

So, when the Expos' turn came up in Wednesday's secondary draft of players previously selected but not signed, they came right back and picked Adams again.

Adams hit .415 in 83 games with seven homers and 77 runs batted in this season and was the second Central Arizona product to go in the first round of the secondary phase. Teammate Frank Ferroni, a lefthanded pitcher, was the opening selection, chosen by the Minnesota Twins.

"They're both ready to go out and play," said Coach Ken Richardson. "They're in the same situation. Another year of baseball at this level won't really help them that much."

Adams was an all-around man for Central Arizona. Besides third base and the outfield, he even pitched and caught on occasion.

"He has outstanding potential as a hitter," said Richardson. "He has a big league bat."

Richardson said Adams stayed in school after last January's draft because the Montreal contract offer wasn't good enough to lure him away. "But he wants to go and he's ready to play," the coach said.

Ferroni was drafted in January by the Cleveland Indians but didn't think he was ready for professional baseball at that point. He preferred a year of junior college experience and pitched 100 innings for Richardson's division champions, posting an 8-4 record and 2.79 earned run average in 16 games.

"He was our stopper," said Richardson. "He has average major league velocity and a pretty good curve ball."

The Twins were enthusiastic about the 18-year-old left-hander.

Ferroni was one of a dozen pitchers selected on the opening round of the secondary phase. And Arizona Central wasn't the only popular shopping spot for the pros, who concentrated on junior college baseball.

There were four players drafted from Miami-Dade Junior College's three divisions. They were first baseman-catcher Aurelio Cadahia by Philadelphia; right-handed pitcher Byron Ballard by the New York Yankees; right-hander Vic Walters by Houston, and catcher Rodolfo Arias by Seattle.

Yavapai JC in Prescott, Ariz., and Blinn JC in Brenham, Tex., each supplied two first-round choices. The Chicago Cubs picked catcher David Sullivan and Texas grabbed right-hander John Butcher, both from Yavapai. Blinn sent outfielder James Glenn, Jr., to St. Louis and catcher Tom Penney to Toronto.

Standing On The Firing Line

The Pause That Refreshes

The pause that refreshes...

For most of us out of shape folks who admit we are over the hill, the pause that refreshes lasts about eight hours or so; it's called sleep.

For those who are over the hill and can't sleep well either, there are the spectator sports. And that's where we found a refreshing pause over the past few weeks.

Remember when everyone used to say there's no such thing as defense in pro basketball? It's all run and gun, free lance stuff.

Ah, but the pause that refreshes...

After watching the NBA playoff series, most of us were so impressed that we were claiming relatives lived in Portland and therefore, were for the Trailblazers.

With all of their multi-year contract, no-cut superstars, the Philadelphia 76ers were not a basketball team, they were a factory. But Portland? Good grief, isn't the biggest thing in Portland the rain?

It was refreshing to see the teamwork and the good, old-fashioned gut hustle. If you didn't stop to really think about it, it seemed more like Portland was playing for the joy of simply winning instead of padding their bank accounts.

Last year, there was Mark Fidrych who came along and brightened things up with his zany act on the mound.

Remember what he said about how happy he was just to be in the major leagues, drawing the minimum salary.

The Bird said if he weren't pitching major league baseball, he'd probably be pumping gas somewhere.

All of that has changed. Now, he's pumping the sports writers and everyone else. He's just another spoiled brat.

He's even got the nerve to charge sportswriters $100 for an interview after a game. So last year, the pause that refreshes was a brief one indeed.

How long can the Trailblazers stay loveable? That remains to be seen. But so far, they've been impressive.

Bill Walton, the mountain man. When he played at UCLA, he was an outlaw because he thought differently than the mainstream. He was involved in anti-war protests and often spoke out on political matters.

His first two years at Portland, he was plagued with injuries and even the Portland press and the fans were on him like ugly on Sasquatch.

Then along came Johnny Davis out of Dayton. Davis probably could have run track at any major university. Maurice Lucas grew up mentally, Lionel Hollins developed almost overnight and suddenly, they were a different club.

With a strong Walton taking charge in every possible way, they turned into a machine of emotion. One the other hand, the 76ers were just a machine, with no emotions. The players were all superstars, they weren't really humans.

The rest is history. Ten years from now, nobody will remember who won the NBA championship in 1977. Ten years from now, Bill Walton will be a 6-11 man who will be at the end of his career.

But ten years from now, Walton will probably still be a vegetarian, riding his bicycle instead of driving, backpacking through the mountains and hitch-hiking through Canada, which is just what he did the summer before his last season at UCLA.

That's simply different. You never once heard about Walton crying for more money or being embittered with his teammates. When Portland got blown out the first two games, you never heard Walton or any of the other players criticize Jack Ramsay for the way he ran the club.

Being different in sports is being a winner.

No Drugs, No Booze, Taylors High On Slew

By CHRISTY BARBEE
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Seattle Slew, bidding to become the only unbeaten Triple Crown winner in thoroughbred racing, lives as though he were the patriarch of a family, a sizable handful of adult people who do his bidding and adore his every move.

And closest to the wonder colt are his owners, Karen and Mickey Taylor of White Swan, Wash., a wholesome-looking, bright-eyed couple who argue frequently about this arrangement and that, but in words liberally sprinkled with "honeys" and "dears."

Also part of the Seattle Slew commune are Dr. Jim Hill, part owner and the veterinarian who helped the Taylors choose the colt, his wife Paula, the horse's groom and other attendants and an assortment of Karen and Mickey's relatives who help out with the evergrowing business that comes with having a winner.

Those duties include answering Slew's considerable fan mail as well as fending off attempts by unauthorized entrepreneurs from capitalizing on Seattle Slew's name.

These days the family of Slew spends most of each day around Barn 64 at Belmont Park, the 3-year-old colt's favorite place, as he prepares to run the Belmont Stakes Saturday in his effort to complete the Triple Crown.

"It's really a family organization," says Karen Taylor, the 32-year-old former airline stewardess who never got over her little-girl dreams of having a horse.

Years ago she begged for a horse from her father, who'd spent his life around horses and wanted nothing more to do with them.

She married Mickey after a seven-year courtship (He says he didn't have enough money to marry her before then, and "besides, she was flying all the time"). He didn't want to get her a horse either — too much work.

But on their anniversary five years ago, he sprang it on her — fortunes were better in the logging business and Karen could have a race horse, one someone else would tend.

"I was in a state of shock," she said. "It was really very nice of him."

Their stable has grown to 25 now and Karen is listed as the owner of all of them, although the horses really are owned by Wooden Horse Investments, a corporation consisting of the Taylors and Hill.

"We decided I would be listed as the owner because I'm really the one who got Mickey into this," says Karen.

The Taylors talk about Slew as one might discuss the maturing of a teenager.

"He had big bones at first," recalls Mickey, who bought the Slew, a son of Bold Reasoning, for a mere $17,500 at the Fasig-Tipton summer sale two years ago. "He was really awkward. But he's grown into his bones. He's lost that baby, bullish look."

"Now he's getting to act like a professional."

Winning may be a habit for Seattle Slew, who hasn't lost one of eight outings, but it's never just easy-going for Karen. She may have utter confidence in her horse but she's a little superstitious and jangled by the end of a race.

"I just get high — no liquor, no drugs — I just get high on the horse. I'm always so relieved when it's over, that he's made it in."

National Hockey League Sets Up Group To Study Merger

MONTREAL (AP) — It will be a while longer before a final decision is made on a possible accommodation of some World Hockey Association franchises by the National Hockey League.

"Certainly the issue is so complex that nobody can make up their minds right now," said Ed Snider of the Philadelphia Flyers, a driving force on the NHL's fact-finding committee on merger.

But at least the NHL's Board of Governors has voted to permit the fact-finding committee to continue to see if the leagues can be brought together.

"The fact-finding committee wouldn't have continued if it did not have a solid expression to continue," Snider said Wednesday.

Snider indicated, however, that if a decision to accommodate the WHA was not made by the end of meetings with the owner-player council in Chicago June 23-24, it was likely the issue would be dead.

"I wouldn't say it is too late for next season," said Sam

Pollock, general manager of the Montreal Canadiens.

"There are two or three ways of looking at it: You've got to have a schedule and you can't wait until the day before the season opens. You either go with the same 18 teams we had last year, minus any franchises such as Cleveland that aren't settled, or with some new clubs.

"But it comes to a point at which they might have to play as their own division."

Thus the rhetoric continued without resolving matters, a situation similar to that endured by Cleveland. The Barons have lived from day to day, hoping a decision on their financial crisis would be made by the governors.

After promising to have it settled by Wednesday, the governors again delayed, and it is possible that no final decision will be reached at these meetings on the proposed sale of the team by Mel Swig.

Businessman George Gund III said Wednesday he was optimistic that the league would accept a modified proposal to rescue the Barons. He was to make his pitch today to a special committee empowered by the governors to resolve the Cleveland situation.

However, Gund's proposal was reported to be more than $1 million short of the amount the NHL had stipulated in discussions a couple of months ago with Sanford Greenberg, owner of the Richfield, Ohio, Coliseum.

Gund stepped in after the group Greenberg put together failed to produce enough cash. The NHL had stipulated that the new owners would have to put up $3.5 million after buying the Barons from Swig. Gund's proposal was reported to be $2.4 million.

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 10, 1977

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) ♈

A less stimulating day than you may wish, but you can cover a lot of ground by planning wisely and eliminating all nonessentials from your program.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21) ♉

Exercise your capability to keep the good things going, to preserve order and to maintain a high degree of attainment. Straightforward action will command respect.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) ♊

Stellar influences stimulate your ingenuity, good humor, affability and precision. Anything less than your best won't give others the picture of the REAL you.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) ♋

Pay no attention to dissenters and pessimists. Go about your activities with good will and a bit of finesse. You can have an unusually satisfactory day.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23) ♌

Continuing good solar influences stimulate efforts and top-level thinking. Check possibilities for making sound investments.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) ♍

Your intuition should be strong now. Just double-check to make sure you are not forgetting small details, and all should go well. Romance favored.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) ♎

Good planetary influences! A time to "dress up" old ideas and methods and make them more practical. Your artistry and creativity stimulated.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) ♏

Don't take to buck present trends or you may find yourself at unhappy variance with associates who could be helpful. Scrutinize all offerings carefully.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) ♐

Past achievements can be correctly appraised now — for what to do and what NOT to do in the future. Your ingenuity will show how to capitalize on experience.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) ♑

With a little added vigor and determination, and a well-arranged schedule, you can propel yourself further toward ultimate aims. Emphasize optimism!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) ♒

Capitalize on your artistic talents and handle your obligations in a productive way and you will reap fine returns. This day has many fine advantages, benefits.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) ♓

Planets fairly generous, but here and there are traps to beset the off-guard individual. Be firm about going forward, but as diligent in detecting flaws.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with glowing vitality, a great love of life, unusual versatility and adaptability. You are gregarious by nature and your personality is such that it attracts others to you almost at first glance. On the minus side: impulsiveness, hypersensitivity, extravagance and a tendency to scatter energies. You have a lively imagination and a flair for the dramatic; would make an excellent writer, trial lawyer or theatrical entertainer. You are born leader but your interests are too varied to keep you at one cause or interest long enough to exert such leadership. You love travel, the outdoors, animals and are generous to a fault.

Melton Named

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — James Melton, associate superintendent for public instruction, will become executive director of the Kentucky School Boards Association on June 30, it was announced Wednesday.

Melton will replace Maurice Bement, who is retiring. No successor for Melton has been named.

Board Planned

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A workmen's compensation insurance rate board will be established by executive order by July 1, a spokesman for Gov. Julian Carroll said Wednesday.

Pet Abel, legal assistant to the governor, said the proposed board will not be a rate-making body, but will accept or reject insurance company filings for rate changes.

Currently, the insurance commissioner has the sole authority to approve or reject rate increase requests.

Federal Jobs To Be Open In Fayette Co.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — More than 1,000 federally funded jobs will be open to Fayette County youths this summer, but the demand outweighs supply, officials say.

The Summer Youth Employment Program, sponsored by the Bluegrass Employment and Training Program, includes 685 jobs for disadvantaged Fayette County youths, as well as 369 jobs for youths from Bourbon, Clark, Franklin, Madison, Scott and Woodford counties, said program director Napoleon Avery.

The mayor's job bank has 350 jobs available and is seeking another 150, but 700 applications are already on file and another 300 will be accepted, said job bank coordinator Paula Powell. Those employed will participate in vocational, cultural and gardening projects, or will work for non-profit community agencies at the minimum wage of $2.30 per hour.

By MRS. W. P. WILLIAMS

We are certainly having a real dry, hot season. The few little showers that are coming along hardly dampen the surface of the ground. So it means continually watering our plants. It doesn't take but a few days of this ninety degree temperature to make the leaves of the shrubs curl at the edges and the small plants droop. But this sort of thing can't last forever and I am sure one of these "fronts" will bring us rain as they pass through. It seems temperatures are off balance all over the country. So let's bear with it and do the best we can until things change.

I had a nice surprise this morning. I went out in the yard and there were three lovely blooms from the Sprekelia bulbs I set out only a few weeks ago. They are such exotic blossoms with a fiery red color and resembling a spider orchid. I hope the bulbs will produce others so that I will have an array for another season. If you see them in a catalogue, be sure to order some as they are so unusual. Shrubs and plants are growing so fast now that you may find you will need to stake some of them, especially the tender ones. The larger ones can usually take the wind, but sudden gusts can snap off a branch quickly. I found several pieces of flower laden branches a few days ago after an unexpected wind-storm.

Don't forget to mulch your plants. This hot sun is so hard on them. The soil bakes dry in such a short time and a good mulch will not only keep the soil soft and workable, but will conserve the moisture, making it easier to care for any sort of plant. I believe in making garden work in the hot summer time as easy as possible. Mulch is one of the gardeners best friends, even if you have to buy a bag or two. That's where my compost pile comes in handy. My two year old pile is still holding out, although I have used bucketful after bucketful. By now it is pure black earth. So mulch seems to be the byword for June.

Pornography Ban

Planned, Bowling Green

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) — The Bowling Green City Commission has authorized the city solicitor to draw up an ordinance banning the sale of pornographic materials here.

The commission voted unanimously in favor of the move Tuesday night at the request of a delegation of some 75 persons led by a Church of Christ minister, the Rev. Wesley Jones.

City Solicitor Wayne Priest told the commission that obscenity statutes already are on the books and that the U.S. Supreme Court has left it up to local communities to decide what is obscene and what isn't.

He said a local obscenity ordinance might be ruled unconstitutional.

"We have a very detailed section in Kentucky Revised Statutes that covers virtually everything in the area of pornography," he said. "As I see it, the state law is all inclusive. Anything that says more may be unconstitutional."

He said an ordinance banning specific magazines would give the accused publishers "an excellent chance to beat the charge because the city would have to prove that everything in the magazine is obscene."

But the commission told him to draw up an ordinance and to present it on June 21.

The delegation of ministers and others told the commission in writing what they would like the ordinance to say.

Their proposed ordinance said "it shall be unlawful to display or sell such magazines as 'Delight,' 'Gallery,' 'International,' 'Male,' 'Man's World,' 'Men Only Annual,' 'Mr.,' 'Penthouse,' 'Playboy,' 'Oui,' 'Stag,' 'Swank,' and other books or magazines of similar content in the city of Bowling Green."

3. Card Of Thanks

WE WISH to take this means of thanking our many relatives, friends, neighbors, special thanks to the Mercy Ambulance Company, the home and health care, also to Reta Gurth the nurse who came every week to our home, in the passing of our dear mother Mrs. Nellie Burkeen. Especially do we thank everyone for the food, flowers, prayers and cards. Also many thanks to Dr. Clark and Dr. Blalock, the nurses on 4th Floor, the singers from Independence Church, to Bro. Warren and Bro. Garrott and also the Max Churchill Funeral Home. God bless each one who helped to make our burden lighter. Children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren.

The equity in your house is like money in your pocket.

Equity is the difference between how much your home is worth, and what you owe on it.

It's a valuable asset you can use to back a really big loan. For whatever you have in mind.

Real estate values are up, up, up.

So the house you bought just a few years ago probably would sell for a lot more than you paid.

Which means your equity is bigger. And the bigger your equity, the more you can borrow in a large real-estate loan. Right here. Right now.

Maybe the money you're looking for is already in the house.

Large loans for homeowners.

Stolen Car Is

Recovered Here

The Calloway County Sheriff's Department recovered a stolen car last night in the Martin's Chapel area, according to department reports.

Officers said the car, stolen from Crouse Motor Sales, was found wrecked, hanging from a bridge, with slight damage underneath the car. An investigation is continuing into the incident.

referred "about three or four" patients to Dr. Ammons in the last several months and that he had helped them when other doctors weren't able to (help them).

"I regard him very highly as a general practitioner," Dr. Jennings said.

Earlier Wednesday, a defense witness, Steve Meadows, of Murray, had been asked to testify as to prosecution witness Bill Boyden's "reputation for truth and veracity" among persons who know him in the local community.

Meadows testified that "other people in Murray think he's not very truthful."

Under cross-examination, however, Meadows could only remember the name of one individual, a former girlfriend of Boyden, with whom he had talked about Boyden's reputation. He said he had talked to several other people about Boyden but that he could not remember their names.

The testimony of Dr. Jennings, who was still on the stand when the trial recessed Wednesday afternoon, continued this morning.

The trial is in its third week in the Western District Federal Court of Judge Charles Allen in Paducah.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's plan to give a special tax break to Americans who insulate their homes is still alive, but its passage is far from assured. The House Ways and Means Committee tentatively agreed Tuesday in a close vote to allow a tax credit of up to $400 for the purchase of insulation and other home energy-saving devices. The 13-12 vote could be an indication of more trouble than expected for Carter's entire energy-tax program.
